

Daniel

Daniel started out
As a slave.
Until interpretations,
He gave.
He told some kings
About their dreams.
Then there was,
A change in things.
He spoke the words,
God had sent.
Grew up to be,
A president.
Some enemies wanted
To kill this man.
They came up with
A foolproof plan.
Said "Oh, king.
Make a law this day.
That only to you,
Men should pray."
Every day, not one time,
But three,
By his window,
Daniel bowed his knee.

The king said "Daniel,
What have I done?
I'm sorry, but,
To the lions son.
I know this thing,
You don't deserve,
So just trust in,
The God you serve."
The next day,
The early a.m.,
The king went down,
To check on him.
Did God save?
The king wondered whether.
Heard a voice.
"King live forever!"
Serve Daniel's God,
The law is that now.
And his enemies,
Well, they are cat chow!
