

David

At the Valley Elah,
Armed to fight,
Philistines left,
Israel right.
In between,
Stood a giant man.
Goliath stood,
With sword in hand.
His rang out,
From morning to night.
“Send me a man,
Not afraid to fight.”
Israel’s Army
Shook with fear.
Goliath taunted,
With his dare.
David shows up,
With bread and cheese.
Sees the giant.
Says “Who’s that sleaze?
Why fear him?
He’s just a man.
I’ll go down,
And take a stand.”

David had five smooth stones,
And a sling,
And faith in God,
For everything.
Said "Know you got
That big ole sword,
But on my side,
I got the Lord."
And from his sling,
The stone did race.
Goliath fell,
Flat on his face.
Made doubly sure
That he was dead.
Use the big man's sword.
Cut off his head.
Just trust God,
When your problems seem tall.
"Cause the bigger they are,
The harder they fall."
