

Ananias & Sapphira

A man called
The son of consolation,
Sold his land,
Gave to the congregation.
And everyone
Thought that was cool.
Ananias said,
“Hey, we’ll do that to.”
But told Sapphira,
“We’ll keep part for us.
Let’s not be fanatics,
In that, in God we trust.”
He told Peter,
“Here’s all the dough.”
Peter said,
“Now, that’s just not so.
The money was yours
When you sold the land.
Now you’re lying to God,
Not to man.”
As soon as all
These words were said,
Ole Ananias, he fell down dead.

Young men took him out
To bury him.
A little bit later,
His wife came in.
Peter asked,
“Did you sell this land for so?”
She said,
“Like my husband said, you know.”
Peter said “Because to God,
you’ve been untrue.
The men who buried your husband,
Will bury you.”
All of the church
Was filled with fear,
When of this man and wife
They’d hear.
Because together,
To God they lied,
They still lie together.
Side by side.
